

Leading Fearless Change: Patterns for Introducing New Ideas

A workshop presented by Mary Lynn Manns, Ph.D.

2007 Symposium

presented by

The School of Computing & Software Engineering

and

The Extended University
Southern Polytechnic
State University

Who Should Attend?

All managers and other professionals who are looking for successful strategies for introducing new ideas, processes, and/or innovative technology into their organization should attend.

Workshop Format

Patterns that lead to support for change and successful implementation of change are introduced. Participants in the workshop explore applying new strategies to their own change initiatives.

Workshop Leader

Dr. Manns is on the Management Faculty of the University of North Carolina at Asheville. She has a background in both computing and management and is a regular consultant and presenter on the use of patterns to introduce change into an organization. Dr. Manns is co-author, with Dr. Linda Rising, of the book "Fearless Change: Patterns for Introducing New Ideas." Each participant will receive a copy of her book.
